FIVE KILLERS
PUT TO DEATH
IN 2 PRISONSThree Die in Chair at Joliet; Two Pay Penalty in Texas

Joliet, Ill., May 10—(AP)—The state satisfied its demand of a life for a life today with the electrocution of three men who participated in the killing of three others during an attempted bank robbery.

Technically the switch was thrown in the old state penitentiary only to expiate the murder of J. Charles Bundy, cashier at the Leonore, Ill., State Bank, because the gunmen who survived the battles which preceded their capture were not tried for the deaths of two others.

Those electrocuted within a 19-minute span shortly after 1 A. M. were Fred Gerner, 27, and Arthur Thielens, 42, both of Rockford, and John Hauff, 32, Chicago.

All went to the chair seemingly calm and gave their last breath to pleas for forgiveness from God and their victims' survivors.

Gerner was pronounced dead at 1:03 after three minutes in the chair. Hauff followed him and was pronounced dead at 1:12 o'clock, also after three minutes. Thielens sat in the chair four and a half minutes and was declared dead at 1:19 A. M.

In addition to Bundy, their victims were Sheriff Glen Axline of Marshall county and Charles Seipp, a township supervisor.

A seventh death resulting from the raid was the suicide of Melvin Leist of Rockford, fourth member of the robber band, who shot himself after a posse surrounded the

County Campaign
on Noxious Weeds
Urged by Ag. Dept.

L. A. Moore of Springfield, superintendent of the division of plant industry of the department of agriculture of Illinois, was in Dixon this morning conferring with County Clerk Sterling D. Schrock and will later meet Chairman William F. Burdett of the county board of supervisors. The purpose of the meeting is to outline a county-wide program of extermination of noxious weeds, which is chiefly aimed at the Canada thistle.

Superintendent Moore stated that a state wide survey is to be made to ascertain the most infected areas, to be completed this year. The department of agriculture proposes a county wide program of extermination instead of the present plan whereby each township appoints a thistle combiner. The county plan, it is stated, is believed to be productive of better results, because of the failure on the part of some township commissioners to carry on the extermination programs. The plan will be submitted to the board of supervisors at their regular meeting in June.

Hunger March Lasts
Single Day: Workers
Say They Will Return

Springfield, Ill., May 10—(AP)—The "hunger march" on Springfield lasted only one day. Sent home, members of the Illinois Workers' Alliance were under orders to stage unemployment demonstrations at relief stations in their mining communities.

With the legislature in adjournment and nothing being done to end the crisis that has left the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission without state and federal funds, the five hundred men and women who converged on the capital yesterday stayed only a few hours.

"The time is not yet opportune for a mass demonstration at the state house," said Edward C. Morgan of Staunton, president of the workers' alliance.

Whether the demonstrators could come back next week to picket the State House when the legislature reconvenes was uncertain.

DIVORCED AT 80

Morrison, Ill., May 10—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Simmons, of Fulton, who is past 80, came into divorce court to complain that her husband, Matthew, also more than 80, was cruel. Judge L. E. Tellen granted her a divorce. They had been married 25 years.

SUCH LANGUAGE!

Baton Rouge, La., May 10—(AP)—The American Bar Association has placed the Louisiana State University law school on probation for giving a special law diploma to Kimble K. Kennedy, a long-time friend of Senator Huey P. Long. The Council on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar, the ruling body of the organization in determining the standing of law schools, found that Kennedy had been issued the diploma "certifying graduation in law" before he completed his studies and without recommendation of the law faculty. A council spokesman in Washington said the action was based on the single case of Kennedy.

Senator Long on hearing of the action remarked the association is "a bunch of corporation lawyers." He said the association "has no more legal status to control schools and colleges than I have in the government of China, Louisiana will tell them to go slab-dab to hell."

TELEGRAMS ON BONUS DELUGE
THE PRESIDENT5,000 Messages Arrived at White House
Before Noon

Washington, May 10—(AP)—The White House was deluged today with telegrams urging the president either to sign or veto the Patman cash bonus bill.

Attaches estimated that 5,000 had arrived before noon, but there was no check as to whether the majority favored the legislation. Veterans' leaders had asked their followers to send to the White House and Capitol Hill telegrams demanding enactment.

Apparently Roosevelt was not taking time to read the messages. He was prepared to veto the bill soon after it reaches him from the senate, where bonus leaders were trying to marshal every ounce of their strength to save the measure from defeat.

His conference yesterday with financial advisors was taken as meaning that in the event congress overrides his veto the president will insist upon levying new taxes.

He did not mention the word "bonus" in a greeting he sent last night to St. Louis where the convention committee for the forthcoming American Legion conclave was in session.

The inflationary bill, which has passed both houses of congress, remained bottled up in the senate while its backers sought support. Private senate polls had indicated that a veto would be sustained, possibly by as many as five or six votes.

Senate Agrees to Consider Reports
Absolving Farley

Washington, May 10—(AP)—The senate agreed today to consider on Monday the adverse report of its postoffice committee on the demand by Senator Long (D-La.) for an investigation of Postmaster General Farley.

The proposal to consider the committee report was made by Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.), after Long had accused him of delaying the matter. It quickly was approved by the senate.

In the discussion, McKellar accused Long of making "false charges" against him and said the Louisiana senator "doesn't know a fact when he meets it on the road."

The post office committee reported to the senate Long's charges against Farley did not warrant an inquiry. A minority of the committee, however, recommended that the investigation be made.

New Soil Erosion CCC Camp will be Located in Ogle County with Increased Enrollment of Forces

Washington, May 10—(AP)—Director Robert Fechner of emergency conservation work today announced that the number of men working on CCC projects in the state of Illinois will be increased from 14,800 to approximately 18,800 under the expanded program recently approved by President Roosevelt.

At the present time there were 74 CCC camps in Illinois. Under the new program, the number will be increased to 94. Of the 38,300 men who will be enrolled, approximately 18,000 will be sent to work projects in other states.

SECRECY VEILS
POSITION NAVY
TRAIL-BLAZERSOfficials Silent Concerning Progress of the Pacific Flight

Honolulu, May 10—(AP)—Official secrecy veiled in silence today the whereabouts of 46 navy seaplanes on a trail-blazing mass flight to Midway Island, 1,323 miles away.

As the hours passed with no information made public by navy officials, speculation grew that the huge air fleet—greatest flying group ever assembled for such a flight—possibly stopped at French Frigate Shoals, 500 miles distant, or at Pearl Harbor and Hermes reef, 100 miles from Midway.

Rain was falling and a 24-mile wind was blowing at Midway when the airmen began taking off from Pearl Harbor at 7:18 A. M. (11:48 A. M. central standard time) Thursday, lending credence to the belief the planes might have stopped at some intermediate point.

No Communication.

There is no means of communication between here and the shoals or Pearl or Hermes reef, and since radio silence is maintained at Pearl Harbor there is no immediate way of determining the air fleet's whereabouts.

Ten to 12 hours had been estimated as the time necessary for the flight to Midway Island.

The takeoff was without a hitch, and despite the silence of officials in revealing whereabouts of the armada, there was nothing to indicate any fears were felt for its safety.

The changing positions of the 46 ships, as they sped over the trackless Pacific where no other plane ever had ventured, was believed known to forces of the United States navy, now maneuvering in a 5,000,000 square mile triangle of the North Pacific in their 1935 war games.

Somewhere in the triangle bounded by Hawaii, the mainland and the Aleutian islands, the 153 ships of the fleet are carrying out training problems, of which the flight was only one phase.

Jobless March on Illinois Capitol

A crowd of unemployed calling themselves "hunger marchers" attempted to establish a camp on the grounds of the State Capitol at Springfield, Ill., May 9, and stopped across the street when stopped. They stated that they would stay in the capital until relief bills now before the state legislature are passed.

DOLLAR CHAINS
SWEEPING CITY
LIKE WILD FIREQuick Turnover Allures Scores to Get Into Latest Chains

The chain letter craze has developed a new phase that is sweeping the city and country like wildfire.

Under the new scheme, a list of ten names is printed, followed by instructions whereby the party interested pays a dollar to the holder of the letter, who in turn mails the dollar in the presence of the donor to the person whose name tops the list. He then crosses the top name off the list, inscribes his own at the bottom of the list and gives the donor of the dollar the letter.

The new letter holder then locates two new prospects who must pay through him, each a dollar to the top name on the list, and in the presence of each of these two new prospects who seek his letter, he mails their dollars or hands them in person to the name at the top of the list. The name at the top is then crossed off and the process is repeated in an endless cycle.

Quick Turnover.

The chief lure of the new dollar chain letter scheme is the apparent quick turnover of the money, and the speed with which the payoff comes. Several local citizens today were reporting as much as $10 returns from an original $1 investment within a period of two days. The chain is kept within the confines of the city if possible, in every case.

Information coming from the post office department in Washington reported all chain letter schemes a violation of the lottery laws, but that the craze had attained such tremendous proportions in the country, no means for halting it existed. Officials expressed the belief the fad will soon run its course as have the many other fads such as cross word puzzles, jigsaw puzzles and mah jongg.

DUKE CONVICTED OF FRAUD: GETS JAIL SENTENCE

London, May 10—(AP)—The Duke of Manchester today was found guilty in the Old Bailey of obtaining money under false pretenses and sentenced to nine months imprisonment.

The 59-year-old peer, who earlier testified that his financial road had been rocky during recent years, showed no emotion as sentence was pronounced.

His attorney indicated an appeal would be filed immediately.

Testifying today in the case jewelry allegedly not his property, the duke said a total of 67 petitions had been filed against him, while the number of judgment summonses outstanding now, however, he said.

He denied any intent to defraud when he pawned the jewelry belonging to the estate of his late American-born mother. He declared he had paid interest on the pledged gems and kept insurance in force with the purpose of redeeming the articles, adding that he had the money in his pocket to do so.

State Administration
Scored by Socialists

Decatur, Ill., May 10—(AP)—The relief situation was the major topic of discussion as the Socialist party opened its state convention here today. Scheduled to address the meeting, which will close Sunday, are Norman Thomas, twice a presidential candidate; Clarence I. Senior, national secretary and Al Benson, Wisconsin state secretary. Thomas is to speak at Springfield Tuesday and at Peoria on Wednesday.

"In a state overflowing with milk and honey, we find that one-sixth of the state's population who are on relief, are to face with slow starvation," said State Secretary Joe G. Brinocor.

NEW DEAL'S BID FOR POWER OVER
MONEY APPROVEDHouse Voted Omnibus
Banking Bill; Faces
Senate Opposition

Washington, May 10—(AP)—The New Deal's bid for greater power over money and credit came face to face with a Senate critic today after winning overwhelming approval in the House yesterday.

Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, was summoned before a Senate subcommittee to answer questions about the omnibus banking bill which the House passed, 271 to 110. Senator Carter Glass (D. Va.), chairman of the subcommittee, has opposed some of the powers which the measure would concentrate in Washington.

Leaders predicted there would be no action on the bill on the Senate floor for several weeks, but they foresaw a bitter controversy immediately before the Glass subcommittee.

To Hear Bankers

Glass and his colleagues planned to hear Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the Chase National bank, and Frances M. Law, former president of the American Bankers Association, next Thursday.

Aldrich was among the signers of a statement issued by the bankers' association recently, approving sections of the bill dealing with deposit insurance and some technical changes in the banking laws, but suggesting changes to minimize the possibility of what critics have envisioned as political control over the Federal Reserve System.

Proposal Invalid

House passage of the bill came after that body had smashed down a proposal by Rep. Cross (D. Texas) to make the Federal Reserve System a central government-owned bank.

Cross proposed that the Secretary of the Treasury be authorized to buy $140,000,000 worth of stock in the 12 central reserve banks, now held by the 7,000 reserve member banks. Rep. Williams (D. Mo.) contended such a move would be unconstitutional seizure of property and the proposal was rejected 112 to 61.

Mother Who Demanded Shoes for Her Children at Point of Gun Arrested on Charge of Intent to Kill Today

Brockton, Mass., May 10—(AP)—Mrs. Ida Kryger, 40, mother of several children, was arrested today after, police charged, the woman with trembling hand thrust a pistol at Edward Dushman, shoe store proprietor, and demanded money for shoes for her children.

Dushman, less than five feet tall and weighing a little more than 100 pounds, said he noticed the wavering hand holding the revolver, seized it and thrust it upward over the head of the woman, who is of heavy build, tripped her and threw her to the floor.

He was sitting on her chest, pummeling her face, when a traffic officer arrived.

When taken to police headquarters, her face badly lacerated, Mrs. Kryger was questioned about a six foot length of rope found in her hands. Police said she replied that if she failed in the holdup attempt, she intended to end her life by hanging.

Police said Mrs. Kryger's husband was a $20 a week relief worker. She was charged with assault with intent to rob and assault with intent to murder.

REFUSED WORK

Waukegan, Ill., May 10—(AP)—L. F. Fenlon, Lake county supervisor and postmaster of Warren township, today sought a means of action against men who he said refused to accept jobs in private industry because the wage scale was below that paid on work-relief projects.

Fenlon said the 23 men who had been on work-relief would not work on a railroad project because the pay offered was 35 cents an hour for a 48-hour week and the men demanded 50 cents an hour.

No action is possible under the law, Fenlon said he was told by Assistant State's Attorney Okei Fuqua, even though by the refusal to work the men were likely to become public charges of the township.

VETERAN CALLS
ROOSEVELT HIS
MURDERER: DIESDisabled Emergency
Officer of U. S. Army
Leaps to Death

St. Louis, May 10—(AP)—Leaving a note in which he described President Roosevelt as "my murderer," Albert B. White, Jr., 45, son of former Governor A. B. White of West Virginia, leaped to his death from a hotel window today.

In a note White identified himself as a disabled emergency officer of the United States army and said he had been dropped from compensation because of legislation affecting veterans, for which he blamed Roosevelt.

"Roosevelt, the arch-enemy of the veterans, by order of Bernard Baruch, is my murderer," he wrote, "as well as of hundreds of other veterans not able to struggle on. May God forgive him, for I cannot—not for my own case, but for hundreds of my buddies."

"This dying protest," he wrote in another part of the letter, "may be considered the ravings of a deranged mind, but I have been adjudged competent by the several government hospitals I entered."

He was registered at the hotel as C. R. Watson of Columbus, O., but said in the note he had so registered "because afraid the hospital would take me if the correct name appeared."

Release Amboy Man
After Questioning
Him About Robbery

The first ten days of the month of May have brought reports of eight robberies or thefts to the sheriff's office from various parts of the county, all of which are under investigation. While the number of reports is far in excess of normal variations, none of the eight are of major sums. Sheriff Miller stated today.

Louis Johnston of Amboy who was brought to Dixon yesterday for questioning in connection with the robbery Wednesday night of the Klein bakery in that city, was released from custody last evening. This morning Walter Clayton of Amboy reported the loss during the night of nine chickens, a rooster and eight hens and Chief Deputy Jo Daviess 2,530; Kane 13,680; LaSalle 10,440; Ogles 2,040; Rock Island 7,320; Stephenson 3,720; Whiteside 4,600; Winnebago, 27,600.

IERC GATHERS MILLION FROM UNUSED FUNDGiven Permission to Use It to Relieve Human Hunger

Chicago, May 10—(AP)—Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, told the Cook county board today that the commission had gathered together $1,200,000 from various funds previously allotted the state, which he said would be sufficient to take care of all relief needs in the state until next Wednesday.

Dunham made the announcement at a special meeting of the board, called to consider methods of caring for Cook county's 620,000 relief clients when the $1,200,000 raised last week by a bond issue is exhausted.

Of the $1,200,000 scraped together from the various funds, Dunham said, 55 per cent, or $660,000 will go to downstate counties. The balance $540,000 will go to Cook county.

Used For Food Only

Dunham said he had obtained permission from the federal relief administration to use the money that has been allocated to the state by the federal government for such special purposes as farm rehabilitation, seed loans, and drought relief.

The money will be used for food purposes only, medical care and other services will be eliminated, he said.

"This will save us until Wednesday," said Dunham, "by which time the state legislature will have had time to meet again, and possibly make arrangements for the provision of the necessary funds."

"The Governor is more agitated than anyone has known over the plight of the unemployed. Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins feels the same way but is bound by precedent and can do nothing for the state until the state legislature takes action to provide funds."

Obtains Permission

Dunham said he had conferred with Horner last night and obtained permission from Washington this morning to use the money from the other funds.

"These special activities, such as moving farmers to more productive land, can wait until we obtain more funds," he said.

"The allocation to the counties through the state will be made this afternoon."

The county board adjourned after Clayton F. Smith, its president, asserted that the emergency had been taken care of and there was nothing further to be done.

The announcement came after relief officials had estimated that by the close of business tomorrow relief stations in all counties except Cook would be closed.

Tentative Allocation

A tentative allocation to the counties, as prepared by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary, for approval of the commission at its meeting this afternoon includes: Lee $2,040; Bureau 3,600; Carroll 720; DeKalb 3,120; DuPage 10,680; Jo Daviess 2,530; Kane 13,680; LaSalle 10,440; Ogles 2,040; Rock Island 7,320; Stephenson 3,720; Whiteside 4,600; Winnebago, 27,600.

NRA EXTENSION ONE YEAR PLAN OF U. S. SENATE

Washington, May 10—(AP)—In an effort to wind up the congressional session by early July, senate Democrats in conference today decided to stand by the finance committee's proposal to extend NRA only until April 1, 1936.

House leaders are understood to approve the two-year extension requested by the administration. It looked like a contest lay ahead to reconcile the divergent views.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, said several proposals for amending the extension resolution were presented, but all were rejected on the ground they would prolong the congressional session or endanger enactment of legislation to continue NRA before it expires June 16.

The Democratic leader said party members agreed to speed up the legislative program as much as possible, but that it was believed congress could not finish the administration's broad legislative program and adjourn before July 1 or July 15.

GOV. TALMADGE TO CARRY FIGHT THRU ALL U. H. NATION

Georgia Executive to Oppose Renomination of President

Atlanta, May 10—(AP)—Apparently with the power to name Georgia's delegation to the next national Democratic convention, Gov. Eugene Talmadge plans to take the stump in other parts of the country against re-nomination of President Roosevelt next year.

Under Georgia custom, the Democratic state committee, controlled by the governor, can fix the plan of nominating or may itself appoint the state's 24 delegates to the next convention.

The national convention could seat this delegation or throw it out and recognize whether it came from Georgia and made a sufficient showing.

Asked where he is heading in his fight on the national administration, the governor replied:

"I'll tell you the truth, I don't know where I am heading, but the country is going to hell if something isn't done and that right quick."

He has booked two addresses for New York on May 18, one over the radio and another before the Georgia Society. At least one of them is expected to be a renewal of his attack on the New Deal.

The governor will invade the middle west May 20 to continue his attack on the administration in an address before the University of Chicago. He has another Chicago engagement June 12, before the Association of Commerce.

REASON HAS RETAINED GEORGE V AS KING

Not the least instructive event of the year 1935 is the great jubilee celebration which the British people are holding on the 25th anniversary of King George's accession to the throne.

The affair is notable for its contrasts.
When George V came to the throne he was just one among many great monarchs. There were Nicholas II in Russia, Wilhelm II in Germany, and Francis Joseph in Austria-Hungary, for instance, all of them reigning over great empires and all of them, to all outward indications, occupying thrones that were quite as secure as his.

But today, as enormous crowds throng London's streets to cheer the British king, where are these others?
Francis Joseph is dead, his empire is in fragments, and his dynasty is broken.

Wilhelm is in Holland, chopping wood, while a man who would not have been allowed in the palace at a Hohenzollern reception rules Germany with a tighter rein than Wilhelm ever dreamed of using.

And Nicholas lies underground somewhere in a Russian forest, one of the first victims of the catastrophe that swept his country.

The contrast between what happened to these three monarchs and what happened to George V of England is amazing, and it is not the result of mere chance. It is not even the result of the difference between winning and losing a great war.

The fundamental reason why 2,000,000 people stayed up all night in London to hail the opening of their king's jubilee, while the other three realms are broken and kingless, can be found in the different ways in which the ruling classes of these countries met change.

In Russia, in Germany, and in Austria-Hungary there was only a blind inflexibility. The hammering of war and social discontent could not bend the rulers of those lands;
so, finally, it broke them completely. The ruling classes there could learn nothing, not even in the face of catastrophe, and so they were swept away.

In England, on the other hand, there was flexibility.
The war and its aftermath brought far-reaching changes;
instead of resisting them blindly, the nation's rulers—from the king on down to the industrial magnates and the politicians—had the sense to meet them halfway, adapt themselves to them, and help the nation follow a new course.

As a result, George V still has his throne, and his 25th anniversary finds a tremendous outpouring of national enthusiasm for his person and for the things which he represents.

At a time when change is upon the whole world, this study in contrasts is a useful and instructive thing.

WE CAN REDUCE ACCIDENTS

Every 19 minutes some American is killed by an automobile. So far this year our auto traffic has killed 8,000 people; and the National Safety Council warns that unless something is done to check the trend our death list for 1935 will be the highest we have ever had.

Perhaps the greatest puzzle in modern life is the complacency with which we accept this state of affairs.
Life must be exceedingly cheap in this country when a thing which kills us at the rate of more than 30,000 a year fails to stir us to action.

It is nonsense to say that the rate cannot be reduced. The traffic death rate in Indianapolis, for instance, stands at 36.5 per 100,000 of population; in New York City it is 9.7. Similar disparities are to be found all along the line.

We can cut the toll to a fraction of its present size, if we just make up our minds that we are going to do so.

PROMISE OF PEACE

It is encouraging to note that four of the most important groups in Cuba—the Nationalists, Liberals, Mari-anistas, and Menocalistas—have agreed that constitutional government should be restored on the island and that general elections should be held Nov. 1, next.

Even more encouraging is the fact that the Cuban cabinet has endorsed the plan, and that the election will actually be held.

Outside observers expected downfall of the Machado regime to be followed by an era of peace and freedom.
This expectation has been disappointed, and Cuba has passed through an unhappy time since then.

If democratic government is to be restored at last,
the violence that has been tormenting the island republic should cease; and then, perhaps, Cuba will be in shape to join the slow but sure procession back toward prosperity.

BACKGROUND FOR BONUS

It is pretty obvious by this time we are going to get some kind of bonus legislation from Congress; and while there are abundant arguments against such a step, it is worth our while to remember that the disclosures of the Senate Munitions Committee constitute a background against which most of these arguments look slightly weak.

For this background is simply one long spectacle of swollen profits reaped by war-time industrialists. It includes glimpses of steel makers who held out for more money at a time when they were already making profits of 200 and 300 per cent; of metal producers who virtually went on strike, in time of national emergency, for excessive profits; of whole industries defying the government to lower prices; of speculators making untold millions out of dire human necessities.

Keeping that background in mind, it is somehow very hard to grow indignant over the proposal to slice a little cake for the lads who actually put on the uniforms.

"O, Mister Ink Man," Scouty cried. "I've stood right here and tried and tried to make you hear my voice because I need somebody's aid."

"Now, I'll explain, if you don't mind. I've left the Tynimies behind. By this time, they're in trouble with that pirate, I'm afraid."

The ink man said, "Calm down a bit. Whatever it is, we'll handle it. Now, tell me what the trouble is.
Then I'll begin to think."

"The pirate is my fault, you see, so, now, I guess it's up to me to save the bunch, and I will do it quicker than a wink."

Then Scouty told all that he knew about the Tynimies. "Oh, won't you please hurry and go back with me?" he finished, out of breath.

"That fellow's threatened all of us, and we just don't dare start a fuss. I must admit, quite frankly, that he has us scared to death."

The ink man smiled and said,
"Well, son I'll shortly end his run of fun. You lead the way. I'll follow. I've a dandy plan, right now."
"It really is a clever art to handle folks when they get smart. You just be patient for a while, and I will show you how."

"Oh, gee, that's fine," cried Scouty. "Gee, I knew that you would come with me, but how will you get 'cross that stream and reach the little isle?"

"Upon my lasso I can make the trip, but, with you, it would break."

"Oh, I know how we both can cross," the man said, with a smile.
"Hop right up on my shoulders, son. Here's where we have a lot of fun. I'm going to wade across the stream. It is not deep at all."

Wee Scouty did as he was told.
They started out. "The water's cold," exclaimed the kind old ink man. "Now, be careful you don't fall."

(The Tynimies welcome the ink man in the next story.)

POET'S CORNER

Miss Genevieve Wilkins, cosmetician at Ford-Hopkins store, submitted the following poem written at McGregor, Ia., viewing the Mississippi River on a moonlight night:

O, MISSISSIPPI
O, Mississippi—black as ebony, Reveal your dank, dark secrets to me.
Like velvet curtains drawn nigh,
The clouds hang in the sullen sky;
At tiny shafts of moonlit gold,
Pierce the dark, forbidding folds.

Your murmuring stirs my very heart,
To me your wisdom do impart,
The Damsel Moon with tranquil brow,
Sheds her heavy, flowing shroud;
Looks down to see her mirrored face,
Framed in golden shimmery lace.

Still the longing in my soul—
Speak to me—O, River, hold!
Tall sentinels guard you as you rest;
Your hold them closely to your breast,
With arms upflung as if in prayer,
They stand in whispering silence
there.

O, Mississippi—ever old
Keep your secrets, untold.
Break not your dreamy spell of magic Witchery, which might be tragic.
Thy lonely vigils—keep,
While the world is wrapped in sleep.

"ELECTRICITY TREES"
Among the world's most curious plants are the "electric trees" of central India. Their leaves when touched give a distinct electric shock, and therefore they are completely shunned by birds and insects. These trees are so heavily charged that they affect a magnetic needle at a distance of 70 feet.

ONE OF FIRST STEAMSHIPS

Of the early steamships designed to carry huge cargoes and many passengers, a notable example was the Great Eastern. This ship, one of the first vessels ever built as a steamship, was completed in England in 1867. Originally designed to inaugurate a line between England and Australia, the Great Eastern never made such a voyage, because its engines were not sufficiently powerful. The ship was used however, in laying the first trans-Atlantic cable.

NELSON NEWS

By MRS. M. C. STITZEL NELSON—Frank Parks was to take a ride a day this weekend being confined to his home many months.

The sale of the farm machinery and stock of Mrs. Frank Talmadge, was held last Tuesday and was well attended and good prices were realized. Mrs. Talmadge will continue to reside on the farm and she has rented it to Mr. and Mrs.
Axel Larson. Mrs. Larson is a granddaughter of Mrs. Talmadge.

Fifteen friends gave a surprise kitchen shower for Mrs. William Ortgieisen, a recent bride, at the Edward Ortgieisen home, Wednesday afternoon. A wish for Mrs. Ortgieisen's happiness accompanied each gift. Games were played during the afternoon, and Mrs. Edward Ortgieisen served a delicious lunch late in the afternoon.

John Babin has beautified his home with a coat of paint.
Mrs. Emmert Bishop, Mrs. Edward Ortgieisen, Mrs. H. A. Eastabrook and Mrs. E. D. Stitzel attended a tea and bridge at the Masonic Temple in Dixon which was sponsored by the O. E. S.

BEAR CUBS BORN IN WINTER

Bear cubs are born while the sow still is hibernating. At birth the cubs are very small, weighing only about eight ounces. By the time the mother ends her hibernation the cubs weigh about five pounds.

GOOD THOUGHTS

Let us regard no stage on life's journey as final, else we shall miss the road to development.
—Elizabeth Gibson.

Do not forget that your strength for every conflict depends on your being girded for each as it comes and never being careless or weary.
—E. B. Hall.

O, if thou didst but consider how much inward peace unto thyself, and joy unto others, thou wouldst procure by demeaning thyself well. I think that thou wouldst be more careful of thy spiritual progress.
—Thomas Kempis.

Let us labor for that larger and larger comprehension of truth, that more and more thorough repudiation of error, which shall make the history of mankind a series of ascending developments.
—Horace Mann.

But we all, with open face, beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the spirit of the Lord.
—II Corinthians 3.

To realize that one's progress is not a surface manifestation, subject to chance, but a result of spiritual growth, is to glimpse eternity, and that true selfhood which is immortal. When we glimpse infinite progress, we see how possible it is to claim more and more of good continually.
—Christian Science Monitor.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Gilbert Stansell, Pastor.
Public worship and sermon at 10:45. The occasion will be Mother's Day. The church choir, assisted by Robert Anderson, will present the music and lead the people in the hymns. The pastor will present the Mother's Day sermon. The young men of the church will have charge of the ushering, a large group of young women will present a lovely bouquet to each mother who enters the church, and the Junior Department will assist the pastor in closing the service. Every mother in the church and mothers generally are invited to make a special effort to be in this service. "Let your loved ones or friends know," said the pastor this morning, "that you really want to attend this service." Surely there are enough relatives and neighbors who are interested that our mothers have a good way to get to church. Every husband, son or daughter should be happy to help make mother enjoy her church, because she has the privilege to sit in church with her loved ones.
The church school will convene at 9:45 in all departments. The school is out to beat its record of last month, and that will require some effort, for April was the biggest month in the one hundred years of the life of the school. Here are hard-working officers, devoted teachers and well organized departments. All are invited to be present on time Sunday morning to enjoy the Mother's Day feature in the worship service.
Epworth League at 6:00 o'clock, and all young people are invited.
Doctor Stansell will preach at the morning service at 7:30 and the Men's Chorus will sing. All are invited.
Tuesday evening at 6:30 the Men's Club will present a splendid program on the general theme of "The Christian Man." (1) In the law; (2) in retail business and (3) in production. Three men will speak on the program. Every man who can, should reserve a plate. Young men are invited, too. The president, Prof. B. J. Fraser, will preside, and sum-up the arguments.

Music Sunday Morning:
Mrs. Nate Morrill will play the organ.
Prelude "Prelude in F" ... Shackley
Special selection:
Vocal solo, "Mother O'Mine" ...
... Robert Anderson
Offertory "Memories" ... St. Clair Postlude "Allegro Pomoso" ...

The QUEEN'S CHRISTMAS GIFT

CHRISTMAS DAY of 1898 marked the introduction of uniform penny postage throughout the British Empire. This outstanding postal reform was Queen Victoria's Christmas gift to her subjects.
To commemorate that event, Canada issued a special two-cent stamp, which is equal to one penny postage. It presented a map of the world showing in red all British possessions of that time to which a letter could be mailed for the stamp. Below the map was the wording, "Xmas 1898," and below that was a line which read, "We Hold a Vaster Empire Than Has Been," the inspiration of Sir Lewis Morris.

eleven bassinets. In April the average number of patients at Katherine Shaw Betha hospital was the highest in history of the institution. Some days as large a number as 53 patients were quartered there.

The beautiful, modern Nurses Home was built in 1925. Fourteen sleeping rooms, a spacious living room, study, and kitchenette, all attractively furnished, provide home like quarters for the nurses. The present pupil nurses class number fourteen. Graduate nurses now total eight including the superintendent. This spring and fall a class of fourteen will graduate. A full time nurses' instructress is employed and class work is also given by the dietitian, technical, and surgical floor supervisors. Many of the physicians spend much time preparing and giving lectures before the nurses' class. Staff meetings are held monthly and are well attended by staff members and physicians from surrounding communities.

Grounds Beautiful
A philanthropic committee of the Woman's club holds benefit parties at the Nurses' Home and the proceeds are used to furnish fourteen layettes for worthy mothers. The auxiliary this year was assisted by a benefit party given by Mrs. F. X. Newcomer, and Mrs. George B. Shaw. A group of D. A. R. Spindle and Disteaff Society members meet once a month to sew.

Ex-Mayor George C. Dixon and the park board were instrumental in beautifying the park grounds north of the Nurses Home and resurfacing of the circle driveway in front of the hospital. PWA labor was employed.

A unit for contagion is the immediate need for the present. The ground floor is used for X-ray, laboratory, kitchen and dining room, and two rooms have been pressed in emergency use as wards. The community is grateful and appreciative of the fact that Dixon has a well-equipped hospital and an accredited nurses school.

CRUDE SAIL USED TO AID OARSMEN TO PROPEL SHIP

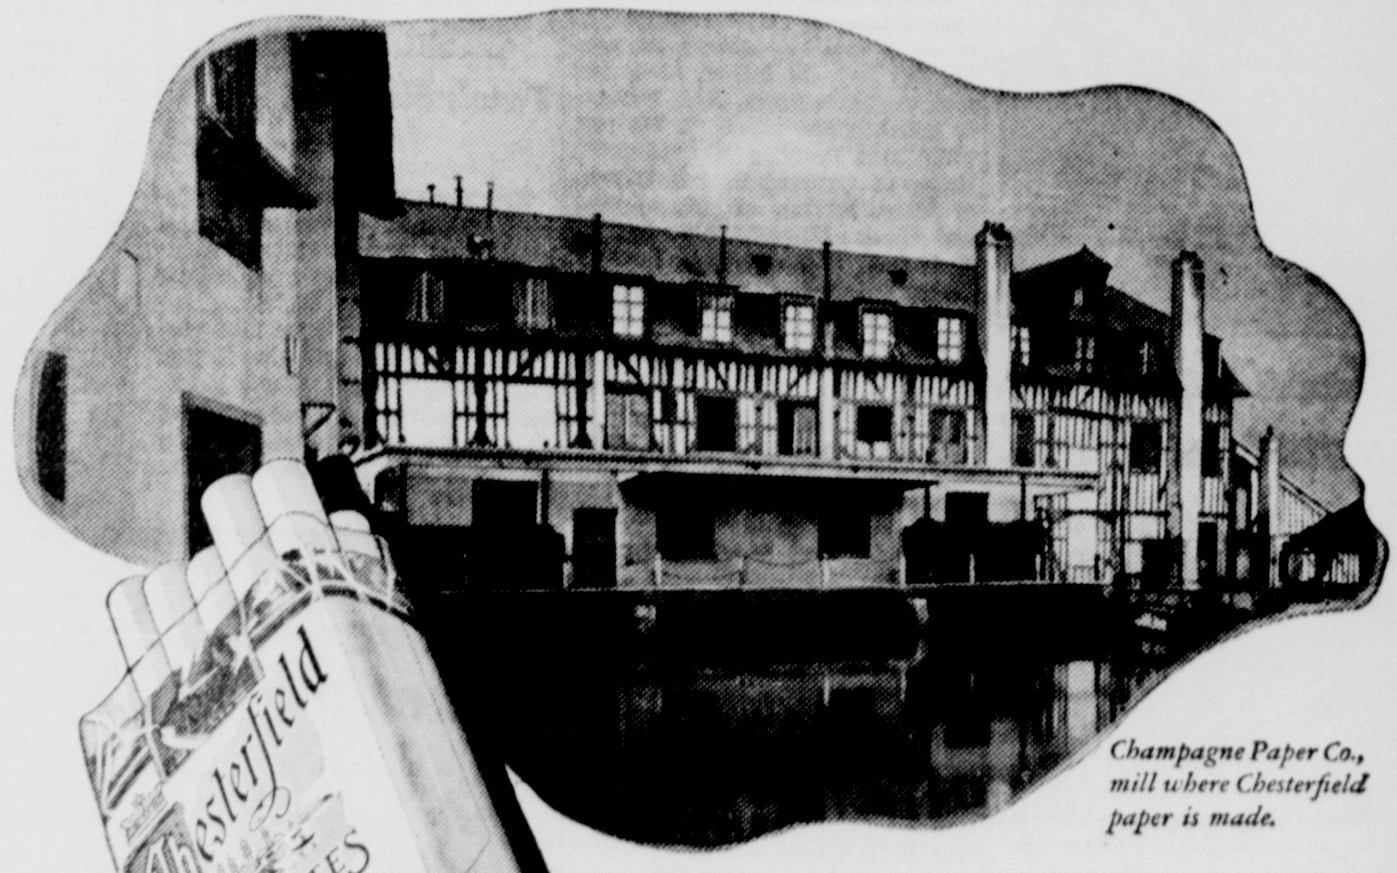

The adaptation of sails came early in the history of navigation, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. The Egyptians first used a piece of square matting lashed to a single mast. This crude sail, however, was by no means the chief means of propelling the vessel. For hundreds of years the propelling force of all ships was principally supplied by oarsmen. Sails were in the beginning merely auxiliary assistants to the rowers and were used only when a following wind was present. Egyptian ships of the fifth dynasty represent a more practicable use of sails as a propelling force. Manipulation of the sail was aided by lines attached to the sail. Backstays supported the mast. All steering was accomplished by paddles in the hand of steersmen on the stern platform. The commander, standing amidships, held a long pole, or a thong, with which he prodded the rowers when they were working.

From the primitive stages of the art of shipbuilding and the skill of navigating vessels progressed to that stage which was represented by the comparatively huge ships known as galleys. The ancient Romans and Greeks, as well as the civilized nations bordering the Mediterranean and adjoining seas, used galleys effectively in war and peace. Galleys were common in the early centuries of the Christian era. The famous triremes of the Romans had lengths as great as 200 feet and were from 20 to 30 feet in width. They were equipped with large sails, but depended upon oars for the chief means of propulsion.

ADMIRAL BYRD NEARS WELCOME IN WASHINGTON

Explorer and Party are Back from 14 Months
in Little America

Washington, May 10 —(AP)— Back from his conquest of Antarctica, Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd and his crew of stalwarts neared the capital today to receive a reception second only to the one Washington gave Lindbergh in 1927.

Top hats and gold braid glistened as officials in brilliant array awaited the arrival of the rust-scarred ship Bear of Oakland bearing the aerial explorer of two poles on the last lap of his journey up the Potomac.

Up bright and early after a night spent at the dock at Quantico, Va., 40 miles down the river, the party planned to arrive at the navy yard here at 3 P. M. (CST) for ceremonies topped shortly before 4 P. M., by a speech of welcome by President Roosevelt.

To Tell Experiences
Besides the president, Secretary Swanson, congressional leaders, Governor George E. Perry of Virginia and high navy officers led the welcoming delegations. Cannons were loaded to roar a 13-gun salute to the commander of the men who faced the rigors of Little America for 14 months.

Byrd, the only man to fly over two poles, was ready to tell the nation of the hardships endured to bring back scientific data from the ice barrier.

In Washington were the mother and wife of the leader of the expedition waiting to greet them. After the navy yard ceremony the admiral and his men were to be feted by the National Geographic Society and other organizations. The society planned to give Byrd a dinner to-night and later a reception in Constitution Hall, at which he will speak more at length of his experiences.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElhott © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 20, is discontented and restless because her wealthy father, VICTOR STRYKHURST and her aristocratic stepmother HENRIETTA, refuse to let Katharine undertake any sort of work.

Katharine rides daily with MICHAEL HEATHERS, young westerner who runs a riding club. She assures herself she is not interested in Michael, who feels a pang of jealousy when SALLY MOON, local coquette, enrolls at the club for lessons.

During a storm Michael and Katharine take shelter in a wayside cabin. Katharine provokes Michael into kissing her roughly. He apologizes later.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

ZOE PARKER sat at the breakfast table in the new pseudo-Spanish house her parents had built on the very tip-end of Ingleok Point. A wall built of blue stucco and studded at intervals with ornamental colored tiles bounded their grounds. There was a yacht landing and a pier, and several small boats floated at anchor at the foot of the steps. Zoe, wearing shorts and a middy-like white blouse which made her look like a very small girl, drank iced orange juice from a glass decorated with lilies of the valley. The glass stood in the center of a bowl of the same delicate make. There were sheer linen mats, the texture of cobwebs, on the old oak table. The maid who served Zoe was in pale yellow, with a musical comedy apron. Everything Mrs. Parker did or touched had this faintly unreal, theatrical air. Henry Parker had made his money in automobile tires and Lisa Parker knew how to spend it.

The one concern of this pair at the moment was their daughter. Zoe had been born to them late in life—Lisa had been 38 when Zoe's first faint scream was heard above the other hospital noises—and now Zoe, at 20, was everything lovely, but she was a silly little thing. Even Lisa acknowledged it. Lisa, who had cooked and scrubbed and washed dishes for 10 years in a little flat in Detroit before Henry came into the money, had a fund of "good, hard common sense." She said so herself. Zoe was frivolous as the wind, or as a butterfly set free over a bed of ageratum. And Zoe's mania at the moment was Gibbs Larkin, who was 35 and who had been correspondent in at least two divorce cases.

Lisa Parker told herself comfortably, coming into the breakfast room which fairly glittered with sunshine, that Zoe had probably "got all over that." Lisa wasn't absolutely sure, but she hoped for the best. Hadn't that nice young man on the boat—the Princeton boy—made a terrific fuss about Zoe? Never called her anything but "Beautiful" all the long day. And had sent flowers twice since they'd been back on this fine morning.

"The storm," she said, casually, to her daughter, "just about ruined my delphiniums." Zoe lifted a transparent cup and drank her coffee.

"Terrible!" she said affably. "Wasn't it funny, Zoe, mused, how older women were about gardening? Herself, she simply couldn't imagine fussing about anything so unimportant. She folded back the newspaper before her to the social notes. Her heart turned over—once—twice. It thudded.

THIS Lisa Parker's thoughts on this fine morning.

Zoe folded back the newspaper to the social notes. Her heart turned over—once—twice—at what she read.

and then righted itself again.

"Mr. Gibbs Larkin is at the Pequot House at White Bay and will shortly depart with friends on a yachting party for Nova Scotia."

So that was it. Would a note to the Pequot House—air mail—reach him in time? Gibbs—Gibbs, darling, didn't anyone tell you I was back? Didn't you get my note?

"Will you have more coffee, Miss Zoe?" asked the black-haired maid, Gerda, at her elbow.

"No, I think not, Gerda, thank you."

"Tell cook to order some more of that gluten bread," Mrs. Parker said. "And tell her to come to me in the morning room right after I have my manicure."

After having a dinner party for two or three nights, I've got to see to everything," she grumbled de-lightedly, once the maid had vanished behind the swinging door.

"Who's coming?"

"Oh, the Strykhursts and the Julians, and Captain Byrne and his fiancée. Two or three other people—I forget—your father has the list."

"Do I show up?"

"You certainly do!" Mrs. Parker made her eyes very round. She was a plump, well-favored woman with a nice color and cheerful blue eyes behind nose glasses.

"Dad is having Mr. Cotnam from the office—very nice Englishman, rubber expert, to take you in," Mrs. Parker went on. "Son of a lord, Dad says."

Katharine wasn't in the maid at the Strykhursts said. She would be back from the riding club in half an hour.

"Riding every day, h'm?" Zoe muttered, backing the little car and wheeling it about.

Zoe decided to go out to Shady Ridge and see if she could pick up Katharine. They hadn't had a chance to talk the other day, with all that crowd around the club. And yesterday had been stormy and Katharine had called to say she didn't feel well. Had a headache or something. As if it weren't an unheard-of thing for Katharine to say she was ill.

"Well," pondered Lisa Parker

happily, "Dad can arrange that. We'll all go over to the club later, then. Wouldn't you like to ask Frank to dinner, too? Perhaps I can get Katharine Strykhurst. That will make the table just right . . ."

"No, don't," Zoe said hastily. "He's dining with some people from Scarsdale. The Williamses—Willises—something like that. He just said he'd see me there."

It wouldn't do to get Mother too excited about Frank Corliss. She'd be having them engaged before you knew it.

"Oh, very well, then. It's all settled," Mrs. Parker was perfectly happy this morning.

Zoe ran out of the house and around to the side of Zoe's roadster. "It was the gearshift lever sticking, miss. I fixed it."

BROOKLYN IS PEEVED OVER YANK TRADE

National Leaguers Lost Pat Malone for Babe Ruth

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Details of the deal between the National and American Leagues whereby the Boston Braves acquired Babe Ruth are beginning to leak out, and here and there lurks considerable hard feelings, particularly in Brooklyn.

It seems that when the matter of placing Ruth for 1935 became a question of national, almost international importance, the club owners got together and talked the situation over.

The Yankees didn't want Ruth any longer, but they had to have a right hand pitcher. No one in the American league would sell or trade them the kind of hurler they wanted. Boston and the National league wanted Ruth, and there were pitchers in the league that clubs wouldn't sell or trade to each other, but didn't mind sending to the Yankees, in the American league, where the pitcher wouldn't be bobbing up to annoy them by winning ball games away from them.

So the Yankees agreed to pay $15,000 for a National league pitcher, and the National league club owners prepared a list from which the Yankees could choose. In return for this, the Yanks gave Ruth his unconditional release and along went the Babe to Boston.

Contains Malone's Name
The list turned over to Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, contained the name of big Pat Malone, one of Joe's favorites when he was piloting the Chicago Cubs to a pennant in 1929.

"There's my man," he said.
Col. Jake Ruppert cheerfully mailed Sam Bredon, of the Cardinals, a check for $15,000. The National league club owners, still keeping their managers in the dark about the whole business, waived as they had agreed on Malone. And that's how the Yankees got the right hander they needed, a pitcher with a value far above $15,000, and a pitcher who could never have been waived out of the National league under any other circumstances.

The Moans in Brooklyn, when some of this leaked out, ruffled the waters of the famed Gowanus Canal. All winter long Casey Stengel had been looking for just such a right hander as Malone to bolster his staff and make a pennant contender out of a nominally fifth place club.

Casey stormed into the front office of the Dodgers yelling "Where's the blankety-blank so and so who waived on Malone?" The powers that be quietly told him that this was a matter that didn't concern him at all, and please would he just mind his own business and not ask any questions.

MAXIE HURT AS HE REHEARSES IN RADIO SKIT

Champ Says He'll Be In Good Shape to Fight Jim Paddock

Auburn Park, N. J., May 10.—(AP)—Heavyweight champion Max Baer had a powder burn on his chest today and some very decided ideas about persons who play with fire-arms, as a result of a studio accident.

Baer was hurt while rehearsing a radio skit yesterday. Jerry Casale, attached to his camp, was watching. There was some talk of sound effects. Casale decided the sound of the revolver shot, heard over the air, wasn't loud enough. He loaded a revolver with blank cartridges, accidentally pulled the trigger, and the gun went off, injuring Baer superficially.

"But they can't keep a good man down," the champion said when it was all over, and he had received an injection of tetanus anti-toxin. "It scared me, but I'll be back in a day or two getting in shape for that guy Braddock."

"That guy Braddock" is James J. Braddock, contender for the heavyweight crown. They are scheduled to meet June 13 in the Madison Square Garden bowl in Long Island City, unless complications set in—and Dr. Max Silverstein thinks that is unlikely.

Miss Peg LaCentra, who plays in the radio skit with Baer, was burned on the face.

BASEBALL FILM DRAWS CROWD TO STATE HOSPITAL

Fine Science of Game is Revealed; Is An "Animated Book"

Baseball fans from Dixon attended the free baseball movie, entitled "Play Ball" filmed at the Dixon State Hospital amusement hall last night. The film was sponsored by the Dixon Gyro club, and was shown employees and patients of the State Hospital Tuesday evening.

The picture illustrated in slow and rapid motion the fine points of the game, including the techniques of such famous pitchers as Schoolboy Rowe, Tommy Bridges, Lefty Grove, Wes Ferrell, Dizzy Dean, Fred Marberry, Buck Newson, George Earnshaw, Lefty Gomez, and Ted Lyons. Every type of pitched ball was displayed from the screwball, fast overhand drop, curves, and underhand. The individual deliveries of these men in all their grace of execution thrilled the large audience.

Plays Reproduced
Several complicated plays including double plays, stolen base plays, slides, and putouts from shortstop, third, second and field to first base on assists were all illustrated in the picture. The technique of batting was demonstrated by some of the major leagues' heaviest hitters including Babe Ruth, Gehrig, Gehrig, Greensberg, Fox, Averill, and Rogell. Jo-Jo White gave an exhibition of some of his fastest base stealing.

The picture is considered the first motion picture to record the science of the game. It is known as an "animated text book" and was designed to interest youth in the romance of the game that sharpens wits, and builds strong, healthy bodies. It traces the origin of the game from one o'cat played with two batters to the modern type of baseball. The Dixon Gyro club is to be congratulated for obtaining the film for Dixon's baseball fans, and the generosity of Dr. Warren G. Murray, Dixon State Hospital director, in donating the amusement hall, was responsible for its production free of charge.

Will you investigate our Accident Insurance Policy. No one can afford to be without it. Evening Telegraph.

Purple and White Track Team Competes Saturday in Freeport Sectional

Six Counties Send Prep Teams For Fresh Honors

New honors await Dixon high's well-balanced track and field team at Freeport, Saturday, when aggregations of fifteen high schools congregate for the annual sectional tournament on the Freeport high school field.

Teams from schools in Jo Daviess, Stephenson, Winnebago, Carroll, Ogle and Lee counties will compete. The preliminaries will be run in the morning and the final events in the afternoon. Among the large schools, Rockford enjoys the best chance of winning the annual event, and among the hamlets, Franklin Grove with one of the best track teams in years, aspires to dominate the midgets, particularly in the dash events.

Rockford's team, with its two-footed Pegasus, Bob Packard, in the van, romped over thirty schools in the fifteenth annual Gateway Classic at Clinton, Ia., last Saturday, and expects to send Packard to the Champaign tournament for state honors a week hence.

Packard won first place in three events at Clinton. He sprinted the 100 yard dash in 10:2 to victory, romped away from his rivals in the 220 and leaped 21 feet 10 inches in the broad jump. He is expected to capture even more firsts in the less tough Freeport sectional.

Expects More Points
Dixon high's entrants who figured in the Gateway Classic with only two points are expected to place high in several of the sectional events. Underwood, taking a fourth in the javelin toss at Clinton, should again place in a higher position at Freeport. Dixon's dash men, particularly "Rube" Thompson are doped to bring home points for the Purple and White. In the hurdles, "Hickey" McMillon who broke his world record in the Gateway games but failed to qualify nevertheless because of the much superior competition, is favored to regain some of his prestige if not the actual dominant first position. Following is the afternoon schedule all of which are final events:

- Track
1:30 P. M.—120 yard high hurdles.
1:40 P. M.—100 yard dash.
1:50 P. M.—One mile run.
2:00 P. M.—440 yard dash.
2:20 P. M.—220 yard dash.
2:30 P. M.—880 yard dash.
2:50 P. M.—320 yard low hurdles.
3:20 P. M.—880 yard relays.
- Field
1:15 P. M.—Shot put, pole vault.
2:00 P. M.—Discus.
3:00 P. M.—Javelin broad jump, high jump.

RACING CLAN GATHERS FOR PIMLICO RACE

Preakness Enters Its Forty-Fifth Anniversary

Baltimore, May 10.—(AP)—Once again the racing clans are gathering, this time at historic Pimlico for the forty-fifth running of the Preakness. But unlike a week ago at Churchill Downs when a strapping filly, Nellie Flag was a 'hot tip' on every corner, they are lauding Omaha, the stretch running son of Gallant Fox from Willard Woodward's Belair Stud, which showed muddy heels to the turf's greatest in the Kentucky Derby.

Barring an unfavorable turn in the weather, some 35,000 fans are expected to pack the rambling old hilltop course on the outskirts of this city for the $25,000 three-year-old stakes, first won by the horse from which the race got its name.

Omaha Horse To Beat
From the lowly stable lark to men and women high in political and social life came the same words—Omaha is the horse to beat. Here and there however, were a few owners and trainers still confident that in their barns they had a horse capable of whipping the Belair flash. As the result of their opinions some 12 thoroughbreds, five of which trailed Omaha home in the Derby, are expected to answer the call to boots and saddles about 4:15 P. M. (CST).

Nellie Flag, with her youthful owner, Warren Wright, holding to the belief that she would have proved a stronger contender at the Downs but for early interference, heads the beaten Derby delegation, and the robust daughter of Nellie Morse probably will not lack backing either, for over this same oval her mother won the 1924 running of the Preakness.

Would Write History
A victory for Omaha would also write a new page in the annals of the famous race for no sire and son ever won both the Derby and the Preakness. For that matter only three horses ever took both events. Sir Barton completed the double in 1919. Gallant Fox turned the trick in 1930 and two years later Burgoe King won both races.

The four other horses which will get another chance at Omaha, are Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Psychic Bid, Mrs. W. S. Killmer's Sun Fairplay, E. R. Bradley's Boxhorn and Mrs. W. M. Jefford's Commonwealth.

The entry of Psychic Bid, came somewhat as a surprise as the colt's showing in the Derby was so dismal that Trainer Bob Smith originally decided to withhold him from the rich Belmont Park Stakes.
